OPERATION FRONT ROW

---

A 320K creator with a permanent seat at the centre of European tech. Thirteen million views.
One person who cannot be in two rooms at once.

BRIEFING 01

THE ASSIGNMENT

THE ASK

ONE PRODUCT // 8 HOURS

BUILD ONE WORKING PRODUCT THAT HELPS ADITI DECIDE WHAT TO MAKE NEXT, AND GIVES HER AUDIENCE A CLEAR NEXT STEP TO TAKE.

DELIVERABLE

A working demo you can show in under a minute that solves her problem.

CHECKPOINTS

16:00 intelligence drop. 18:00 Judging. 19:00 top six pitch.

JUDGED ON

Value to a real audience member. Focus to her judgement. Use of the evidence. Does it work.

THE TARGET

Aditi Mishra. Creator, host and Head of New Media at a European tech title. 320K across four platforms. Aditi, one manager, one part-time video editor.

THE MISSION

Help Aditi decide what to make next: content that builds real trust with her audience, not just reach, and gives them a clear next step to take.

320K

TOTAL AUDIENCE

MATERIALS ISSUED

01 A creator dossier

02 Audience evidence

03 Content + access data

04 Private notes + thought process

05 A sealed intelligence drop

STANDING ORDER

You do not need to use an LLM. You do not get extra points for complexity. Not a course. Not a coaching funnel. The winning product is the one that best understands Aditi and creates real value for her audience.

HER RULE

"I would rather say one true thing about a room I was actually in than ten clever things about a room I was not."

Assessment: her access is the asset, but only if she can tell people what to do with it. The content problem and the trust problem are the same problem: one clear, repeatable answer, not a faster way to reply to everyone separately.

BRIEFING 03

KNOWN ASSOCIATES

Large enough to be a real audience. Specific enough that one generic answer fails all of them.

THE CLIMBER

HIGH INTENT

"Would you take this job?"

Wants Aditi to narrow the choice down to one.

THE BUILDER

SAVES / SHARES

"How do I get into that room?"

Wants the route in, not the anecdote from inside.

THE SWITCHER

COMPARES

"Was it worth what it cost you?"

Wants the honest arithmetic before committing.

THE OPERATOR

HIGH REPEAT

"What would you have asked them?"

Wants her framing applied to their own work.

THE FORWARDER

INVISIBLE

"Sending this to you."

Passes it to someone who acts on it. Invisible to every dashboard.

NOTE

The audience does not behave like one audience.

ASSESSMENT The strongest product doesn't feed the audience more content, and it isn't a faster inbox. It turns one decision into an answer people can trust and act on.

E-01 THE INBOX

These are not all the same question. Read the subtext.

E-01.1 @priyanka.builds ACCESS REQUEST
"WHICH event was this, I am begging you"

E-01.2 @noor.kh DECISION
"Ok but if you were me, would you take the seed-stage offer or stay put?"

E-01.3 @sanaya.writes ADAPTATION
"I love this but I am not in London. How would you do it from Bangalore?"

E-01.4 @tomhbailey BUDGET
"How much did that week actually cost you? I have about £600 and a lot of nerve."

E-01.5 @meeraa.k SOCIAL SHARING "Sending this to my sister because she is doing exactly this right now"

E-01.6 @jules.ops TRANSLATION
"Can you do this one in Hindi? My mum still does not understand what I do."

E-01.7 @elena.vc INTENT
"Can you do a version of this for someone outside tech? Same energy, less startup."

E-01.8 @dev.m POST-DECISION
"I took the job. What do I actually do in the first 30 days?"

E-01.9 @rhiannon.b CONSTRAINT
"I want to build in public without annoying my employer. How do you decide what to post?"

E-01.10 @carlota.p TRUST
"This is the first creator account where I actually read the captions."

E-01.11 @yusuf.rk SECOND-HAND DISCOVERY
"My manager sent me your keynote clip because he thinks I need it"

E-01.12 @aisha.j CONSIDERATION
"I have opened this three times. Still deciding."

CLUE E-01 Twelve messages, seven different jobs. Underneath all of them: decide for me the way you would decide for yourself.

|-------|------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| 06:40 | Coffee, inbox triage         | 41 unread "which event was this?" messages |
| 07:30 | Films two segments           | Lighting, outfit and lines set from memory |
| 08:45 | Day job begins               | Editorial and new media, full attention    |
| 13:00 | Interview prep               | Reads three founder decks between meetings |
| 17:10 | Voice notes on the walk home | Nine minutes of context, unfiled           |
| 18:30 | DM sprint                    | Answers 44 useful questions                |
| 19:45 | Edit brief to video editor   | 900 words so he can cut without her        |
| 21:00 | Newsletter draft opens       | Closes again. 42,000 people waiting.       |
| 22:15 | Second DM sprint             | Still 130+ unanswered                      |
| 23:20 | Flight check-in              | Country four of six, four months           |
| 23:40 | One last check               | "Tomorrow I need to fix this."             |

CLUE E-02

Two DM sprints a day and the queue still grows. The bottleneck is not effort. Her judgement exists only in real time, and only in one place at a time.

E-05

HOW SHE THINKS

Her own notes, and her own words. Messy on purpose. Useful on purpose.

E-05.1

KEEP / MAYBE / KILL

Founder interviews, the best one Conference recaps, big numbers, small effect
Backstage answers, make once, keep forever
Career posts, wrong room

"if I would not say it to my sister on the phone, I do not post it."

E-05.2 // QUESTIONS I KEEP ANSWERING which event was this?

how do I get in?
was it worth it?
what would you have asked?

E-05.3 // IDEAS, UNFINISHED

let people bring me their own decision
maybe the answer is not a newsletter

E-05.4 // REMINDER TO SELF

STOP MAKING [REDACTED]. CURATE
5.

E-05.5 // HANDWRITTEN MARGIN

"People want my judgement, not my calendar."

E-05.7 // THOUGHT PROCESS

"I actually like answering people. It's why the community feels like a community. What I can't do is be awake in six countries at once. If something could capture how I decide, not just where I happened to be standing, that would be useful to a lot more people than the ones who catch me live."

E-05.8 // NOTICE THIS

- / "how I decide"
- / "not just where I happened to be standing"
- / "awake in six countries at once"
- / "the ones who catch me live"

E-05.6 // CONTRADICTION

She keeps saying "less content". But her highest-converting posts are also the most heavily edited. The opportunity may be less about posting less and more about making each judgement carry more of her context.

STEAL THE JUDGEMENT

Your mission is not to build a better link in bio, or a course. It is to turn Aditi's judgement into one answer her audience can trust, and know exactly what to do with.

E-07.1 Help a real audience member make a better decision.

E-07.2 Preserve a meaningful piece of Aditi's judgement and taste.

E-07.3 Work with the evidence provided.

E-07.4 Be demonstrable in a few clicks.

E-07.5 Not require expensive AI inference to be impressive.

FINDING // E-09.1

THE OPPORTUNITY IS ALMOST NEVER THE CLICK

People use Aditi to decide, then act weeks later, usually somewhere she cannot see. The value is being undercounted by every obvious metric.

E-09.2

71%

of people who acted on her advice never clicked a link in the post

E-09.3

9.2 days

median time between saving Aditi's content and taking the action

E-09.4

44%

of her highest-value inbound arrived through a forward rather than a follow

E-09.5

3.1x

higher action rate when a person saved three or more posts before deciding

LOOK CLOSER

The YES/NO around link clicks is intentionally incomplete. You are supposed to decide what matters, then decide what to instrument. Signal can be behavioural rather than transactional.

BRIEFING 04 // CONTACT

THE JUDGING

At 18:00, the judges, including, Aditi take their stand.

THE RULE

For the demo, don't just tell what you've built - show how it makes their life easier.

01 WOULD I USE IT?

Does this solve a real problem in my actual week?

02 WOULD I TRUST IT?

Does it preserve the thing my audience actually comes to me for?

03 WOULD MY AUDIENCE USE IT?

Does it make a decision easier, faster or better?

04 WOULD I SHARE IT?

Would I put this in my content, my bio or my DMs tomorrow?
